

the formula for the solution
creating a new block in an already operating texture

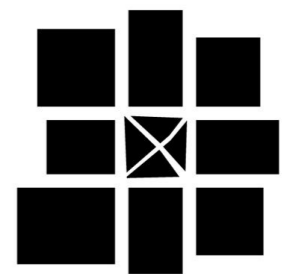

“foreign body”
unused, interlocked, foreign functioned inclusion in the texture

“removal”
liberation, opening of the area -
a new and empty public area comes into existence

“reaction”
the texture reacts – new pedestrian lines of force come into existence – “between two points the shortest route is the straight line”

“adaptation -consolidation” adaptation to the spontaneous reactions – upholding the lines of force,consolidation of the texture by filling the areas between the lines with functions

The city, the urban texture behaves as a large river.
Here and there slower, here and there faster,
at some points it disappears than again it comes up, but it is always a constant media, streaming to one direction.
Landmarks, stones lead, form and baffle its way.

In case we vanish these blocks, illingly or unwillingly the water will seek and find its way. Later on nobody will remember to the dams, the river will hide and acquire the clean medium.

The human is also such a river, for whom we try to provide its way and medium in a liberated area in the most possible natural way. A medium for the foundation of a family, for entertainment, for work and for the LIFE...
